Put It Takes Shrawd Planning to Gel His Packages Home All Right. "It seems to me." said the worriedlooking man, "that memory is very much a matter of habit. Now, for instance, there's the umbrella, generally supposed to be the most clusive and cashly forgotten of all things. I never forgot mine, for I am accustomed to should miss it almost as small and should miss it almost as much as would my hat. But I am not access ned to carry things home, and I sel dom anecced when I try. I bought some collars once on my way up town and carried them with me to the Polo grounds. I stowed them safely under my seat while I watched the game and -another were the collars. Once, when I lived in the suburbs, I bought one day a fish to carry home. I placed it securely in the rack overhead in the cars, and—I hope the railroad folks have removed it before now. I tried yesterday to carry home a bundle conaining some things that I had bought, and discovered, after I got home, that I had left the bundle in a street car. If I am going traveling for any distance I carry my luggage in a certain number c: pieces; I have, say, big bag, little bag, two overcoats and umbrella. When go aboard or leave the cars or boat I know that I ought to have five pieces, and I never forget them. But here again memory is a habit. On short trips, if I have anything to carry I try by one of three ways, if I think of it, to remember. If it is a bundle that I can put in my pocket, I put it there; that is obviously the safest way. Auother way is to put the package on the floor of the car where I must stumble over it in going out. The other way is to carry it in my lap or to lean it up against me so that it will fall and attract my attention when I get up. If I neglect to take one of these precautionary measures the package is gone; but I never forget my umbrella."-N.

The New Bread

As endorsed and recommended by the New-York Health Authorities.

Royal Unfermented Bread is peptic, palatable, most healthful, and may be eaten warm and fresh without discomfort even by those of delicate digestion, which is not true of bread made in any other way.

To make One Loaf of Royal Unfermented Bread: 1 quart flour, 1 teaspoonful salt, half a teaspoonful sugar, 2 heaping teaspoonfuls Royal Baking Powder, cold boiled potato about the size of large hen's egg, and water. Sift together thoroughly flour, aslt, sugar, and baking powder; rub in the potato; add sufficient water to mix smoothly and rapidly into a stiff batter, about as soft as for pound-cake; about a pint of water to a quart of flour will be required—more or less, according to the brand and quality of the flour used. Do not make a stiff dough, like yeast bread. Pour the batter into a greased pan, 4% by 8 inches, and 4 inches deep, filling about half full. The loaf will rise to fill the pan when baked. Bake in very hot oven 45 minutes, cing paper over first 15 minutes' baking, to prevent crusting too soon on. Bake immediately after mixing. Do not mix with milk. · Perfect success can be had only with the Royal Baking Powder, because it is the only powder in which the ingredients are prepared to as to give that continuous action necessary to raise the larger bread loof, The best baking powder made is, as shown by analysis, the "Royal." Its leavening strength has been found superior to other baking powders, and, as far as I know, it is the only powder which will raise large bread perfectly.
